function force = distf(position)
% This function gives a distributed force as a function of position
% along the beam. It is called by the beam solver program many times, % each time at a different position. So this function must return a % value of force per distance as a function of position.

force = 0.0;