Cal Poly's 2022 Incoming Class is Once Again Most Diverse in University History

Cal Poly announced that its 2022 incoming class is the most diverse in the university's history. Following the official fall census count, the university confirmed the incoming class includes the highest-ever percentages of women; students from partner high schools; first-generation students; Asian students; and Hispanic/Latino students. The class is extremely high-performing, with the GPA of the incoming class of first-time, first-year students being the highest in Cal Poly's history. This year's numbers continue a trend of Cal Poly's incoming student classes being increasingly diverse. For the last five years, each incoming class has been the university's most diverse ever. Latinx Center Grand Opening on Nov. 10

The university will host a grand opening celebration for the newly established Latinx Center, La CASA (Latinx/e Center for Academic Success and Achievement), from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 10, outside the Science Building (No. 52). The campus community is invited to attend the celebration and enjoy cultural food and refreshments; mariachi music; and remarks from alumni, students and university leaders. La CASA is the newest addition to Student Diversity and Belonging (SDAB), a collective of campus resource centers within Student Affairs that aim to provide a home away from home for underrepresented students at Cal Poly. La CASA offers students the opportunity to gather and build community while exploring their cultures, histories and traditions.

Kennedy Library Renovation Update

Kennedy Library will be renovated to create a more student-focused, energy-efficient and sustainable space, and to accommodate increased programmatic needs. The library will remain open for the 2022-23 academic year. Construction is planned to start in July 2023, with a scheduled reopening during fall quarter 2025. During the renovation, the library's physical location (No. 35) will be fully closed, however, access to programs, services and study space will still be available at alternate locations. A communications project team has been created to help keep the campus community informed of ongoing updates surrounding the renovation, including how work is progressing, where library programs and services will be available, any changes, what's new and more. For more information and updates, visit the project page: <https://afd.calpoly.edu/facilities/planning-capital-projects/project-news/kennedy-library/>

Take Survey by Nov. 18 to Help Campus Dining Build a Better Dining Experience

Campus Dining is looking to build a better dining experience and seeks feedback from the campus community. Completing the survey, which takes about eight minutes, enters respondents into a sweepstakes to win one of three prizes: an Apple Watch Series 8; a Keurig coffee maker plus a $100 Amazon gift card; or a Nintendo Switch. Responses will help Campus Dining improve the customer experience for staff, faculty and students, and help develop more innovative ways to deliver products and serve the campus. The survey is open through Nov. 18 at calpolydining.com/survey.

Campus Coronavirus Site to Sunset, Redirect to Roadmap

As part of Cal Poly's continued response to the coronavirus pandemic, several changes are coming to campus websites. The coronavirus website will be removed on Thursday, Nov. 10, and redirected to the Roadmap website www.calpoly.edu/roadmap, which contains the latest updates and links to information for students, faculty, staff and visitors. Information on student vaccination, testing, isolation and other resources is available on Campus Health and Wellbeing's website at chw.calpoly.edu/covid-19. Employees can check Human Resources' Employee Health Information webpage at <https://afd.calpoly.edu/hr/employee-health-information> for information on employee vaccination, testing resources and more. Questions? Email communications specialist Cynthia Lambert at cmlamber@calpoly.edu.
