Central Coast Social Justice Education Conference to be Held May 20

The Sixth Annual Central Coast Social Justice Education Conference will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 20. The free hybrid conference is titled “Building Community and Connection: Solidarity through Education” and includes themes of re-imagining relationships through self-reflection, community engagement and collective action. The event will kick off with Dominican-American educator and bestselling author Lorena Germán’s virtual keynote address. Germán focuses on anti-racist and antibias work in education. The talk will be followed by a virtual panel discussion with K-12 educators and community activists from the Central Coast. An in-person curriculum fair will be held from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Santa Maria High School’s Multipurpose Room, 901 S. Broadway in Santa Maria. The Central Coast Coalition for Undocumented Student Success and Cal Poly School of Education are conference cohosts. Learn more and register at <https://www.ccc-uss.org>.

May is Mental Health Awareness Month

During the month of May, University Personnel — Employee Wellbeing acknowledges the struggle, fights stigma and provides support, education and advocacy for people impacted by mental illness. Online screening may be the quickest way to determine whether individuals are experiencing symptoms of a mental health condition. The Employee Assistance Program, MyLifeMatters.com (sign in: calpoly), is a resource featuring mental health screeners and webinars on boosting mental health, balance, meditation, resilience and finding help. LifeMatters can also be reached at 800-367-7474. Services provided directly by LifeMatters are free. Anyone referred to outside resources will be advised of additional costs, if applicable. Contact Lisa Gray at LCGray@calpoly.edu for more information.

Participate in Bike to Work to Win on May 19

May is National Bike Month, and Transportation and Parking Services is celebrating with an Instagram contest. On Bike to Work Day, Friday, May 19, the campus community is invited to share a picture for a chance to win a $25 Mustang Shop gift card. To enter the contest, post a story or selfie while on campus biking to work or class and tag @insidecalpoly. The first 15 people will win a $25 gift card to the Mustang Shop. With 7,000 bike rack spaces on campus, riding is a great option when choosing a commute. Nearly 33% of all staff and faculty live within 5 miles of campus, making for an easy bike-friendly commute that will help to open parking spaces and decrease the university’s carbon emissions. To reduce Cal Poly’s carbon footprint, TAPS encourages everyone to participate in this year’s Bike to Work Week. How to Access to Physical Collections During Kennedy Library Transformation

Kennedy Library understands the need for easy and ongoing access to items in physical collections for scholarly, creative and curricular use. To obtain materials from the library collection or to place materials on course reserve during the next two academic years, check them out of the library before the end of spring quarter 2023. They will be automatically renewed through the duration of the renovation. Most of Kennedy Library's physical collections will be packed and securely held in dark storage during the renovation. A small portion — approximately 12,000 items — of the physical collection that is frequently used will be relocated and accessible in Crandall Gym, where visitors may browse collections and check out books. All physical collections in dark storage will be eligible for request and delivery through Interlibrary Loan (ILL). For more information, visit <https://guides.lib.calpoly.edu/updates>.

Summer Off-Duty Staff/Faculty Permits Available Until June 2

Transportation and Parking Services (TAPS) is kicking off its annual off-duty permit program. Off-duty permits allow faculty and staff to park on campus briefly during their unpaid leave. The eligibility requirements for off-duty permits include: faculty who will not receive an appointment during summer 2023, faculty and staff on leave without pay, faculty on sabbatical or Difference in Pay Leave, or faculty and staff off duty pursuant to the 10/12 or 11/12 pay plan. Departments need to submit an "Off-Duty Permit Request" form for eligible faculty and staff to TAPS through AdobeSign by Friday, June 2. Off-duty permits will only be issued to faculty and staff who request through this process. Learn more and request an off-duty permit at <https://afd.calpoly.edu/parking/parkingoncampus/permits>.

Social Linguistics and Literacy Scholar to Speak on Global Accessibility Awareness Day May 18

Drawing from disability studies, his own cancer diagnosis, and his research on the writing and communication practices of a group of international STEM scholars, Suresh Canagarajah will present "Crip Writing: Communication Through a Disability and Decolonial Lens," from 3:30-4:30 p.m. Thursday, May 18, in the Advanced Technology Laboratories (No. 7), with a reception to follow. In his talk, Canagarajah, the Edwin Erle Sparks Professor of Applied Linguistics, English and Asian Studies at Penn State University, will demonstrate the importance of centering vulnerability and relational ethics in all effective communication. This event is held in conjunction with Global Accessibility Awareness Day and is sponsored by the Office of Writing and Learning, the College of Liberal Arts, the English and Political Science departments, and the Disability Faculty-Staff Association. The event is accessibly designed, featuring an ASL interpreter and CART real-time captioning. Attendees may contact John Lee (ilee245@calpoly.edu) with questions about event accessibility or requests for disability-related accommodations. For more information, visit <https://writingandlearning.calpoly.edu/specialevents>.

Trauma Healing for Educators of Color Offered May 17

As part of the Building Toward Equity Faculty Development Program, faculty of color at Cal Poly are invited to join a workshop titled "Trauma Healing for Educators of Color," from 4-7 p.m. Wednesday, May 17. This workshop aims to provide faculty of color with a space to acknowledge, process and begin to heal from traumatic experiences, especially experiences with racism, discrimination and other negative experiences resulting from the oppression of marginalized and intersecting identities. Activities for this workshop include an opportunity to discuss and process negative racialized academic experiences with similarly marginalized peers; and the use of evidence-based practices, including letter writing, breathing exercises and affirmations developed to heal from those experiences and become more efficacious and self-assured in an environment that often denigrates and invalidates BIPOC (Black, Indigenous and people of color) faculty. Visit <https://ctlt.calpoly.edu/trauma-healing-educators-color> to learn more about the workshop and register.

Toastmasters Club Coming to Campus

The Toastmasters Club is coming to campus and is the perfect opportunity for employees to gain experience in public speaking. This new club is part of Toastmasters International, a nonprofit educational organization that teaches public speaking and leadership skills. Members of the Cal Poly Toastmasters Club will be part of a supportive and positive community that empowers its members to develop skills through a structured and interactive program. With Toastmasters, members learn to speak confidently, listen effectively and lead with impact — skills that are invaluable in both personal and professional life. The club plans to meet every Wednesday from 12:10 to 1:10 p.m. on campus, creating a space for members to network, connect and grow together. To learn more about the Cal Poly Toastmasters Club and how to join, contact Eumi Sprague (esprague@calpoly.edu), IT director emeritus and Toastmaster International division director with District 33.
