Cerro Alto, at 2,624 feet in the Los Padres National Forest, is one of the tallest peaks in the county, providing commanding views of the coast and Santa Lucia Mountains. The hike is challenging; it begins at the campground, which is at about 1,000 feet in a verdant canyon pass. Invite friends, family and dogs (on a leash) — who are comfortable with hiking uphill. Bring $5 cash for parking. The hike is part of the Poly Connections program, which connects faculty and staff with people, places and resources across campus.
