The California Faculty Association (which represents instructional faculty, coaches, librarians and psychological counselors) and Teamsters Local 2010 (representing plumbers, electricians and other skilled trades workers) have called for a five-day strike from Monday, Jan. 22, to Friday, Jan. 26, on every CSU campus, including Cal Poly. Cal Poly's campus will be open and operational, including support services for students and programming such as Campus Dining and University Housing. For additional information and answers to some frequently asked questions, visit www.calpoly.edu/strike.

1901 Marketplace — the campus's largest and longest-operating food service facility — is set to reopen on Tuesday, Jan. 23. The former home to The Ave, 805 Kitchen and Poly Deli will give students a central gathering place to meet and eat. Campus Dining's new space will feature: Picos, offering a full menu of Mexican favorites featuring items that avoid gluten; Red Radish, a build-your-own salad bar eatery showcasing fresh produce; Julian's, with coffee, smoothies and various grab-and-go options; and Pom & Honey, offering a Mediterranean concept with customizable wraps, bowls and salads. The marketplace will also house returning campus favorites Chick-fil-A and Poly Deli. Panda Express will open in the spring.

K9 Zeus handler Officer Stephanie Pipan and the Cal Poly Police Department will host the seventh annual Evening with the K9s on Saturday, Jan. 27, from 3-8 p.m. at Thousand Hills Ranch in Pismo Beach. The event will feature demonstrations by local police K9 teams, dinner, a silent auction and more. All proceeds benefit the Cal Poly K9 program, which is partially funded by donations and community support. The K9 Unit was created to enhance the safety of everyone on campus. K9 Zeus is a German shepherd that specializes in patrol, hard-surface tracking as well as weapons and bomb detection. Zeus provides security at many campus gatherings and sporting events. He and Officer Pipan are called upon to assist other local, state and federal agencies. Zeus is certified by the state Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training, or POST, as a Police K9, and the team must continue its monthly training to maintain that certification. An Evening with the K9 is made possible through campus and community support. Tickets are $65 with tables of 10 available for $575.

Applications are being accepted for the Utility Box Art Project, a campus beautification initiative transforming utility boxes into works of public art to enhance the vibrancy of the campus and showcase local talent. All students, faculty, staff and community members are invited to submit an application (due: Feb. 15) via email to af@calpoly.edu. Selected artists will be notified in March and will receive a $250 VISA gift card to cover necessary materials.

Faculty and staff are invited to the Science Building (No. 52) Open House on Monday, Jan. 29, from noon to 2 p.m. Visit participating offices (New Student and Transition Programs; Educational Opportunity Program; Upward Bound; Latinx/e Center; Black Academic Excellence Center; Graduate Education, Retention, Cal Poly Scholars, Cal Poly Arts, Mustang Success Center, International Center; and Extending, Professional and Continuing Education) in the structure, commonly known as the “spider building” for its sprawling hallways. This is an opportunity to learn how each office supports the campus community while picking up free treats and swag. Look for balloons throughout the building to find participating offices. The open house is part of the Poly Connections program, which connects faculty and staff with places, people and resources across campus.

The Instructionally Related Activities Advisory Committee is accepting proposals for the 2024-25 academic year for activities seeking first-time recognition. An Instructionally Related Activity, or IRA, is an extracurricular “out-of-class experience” that provides enrichment to students and enhances their learning at Cal Poly. IRA funds cannot fund specific projects or field trips as part of an academic course. The deadline for submissions for new IRAs to college deans is midnight Friday, Feb. 2. Allow ample time for signature routing in AdobeSign. The call for continued recognition for currently recognized IRAs will go out separately in early February with a deadline in March. Contact Jessica Carson at carson@calpoly.edu for additional information and help with proposals.

The Students with Dependents Program, within the Office of the Dean of Students, will host its first inclusion training Wednesday, Feb. 7, from 10-11:30 a.m. This first virtual training will help participants understand more about students with dependents, learn about higher education policies specific to parenting/caregiving students and think about how to bring this new knowledge to their campus roles. The training is designed for faculty, staff and student employees interested in enhancing inclusive and equitable practices to support students with dependents’ success. Register to receive the Zoom information. Questions? Contact Students with Dependents Program Coordinator Courtney Moore at cmoore90@calpoly.edu.

All Asian Pacific Islander Desi American, or APIDA, faculty and staff members seeking connection, empowerment and a chance to make a difference are invited to join the APIDA Faculty Staff Association (APID FSA). Since 2007, the group has fostered a vibrant community dedicated to supporting professional growth, celebrating heritage and advocating for diverse and inclusive campus life. The association is hosting a panel discussion featuring prominent APIDA faculty and staff from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 1, at the ATL (No. 7). Food and drinks will be provided! APIDA offers opportunities to network, learn and share unique voices. Faculty and staff members seeking mentorship, leadership development or simply a space to connect with others with similar experiences, will find it at APID FSA. Join and discover the power of community, and start building a brighter future for yourself and the APIDA community at Cal Poly.

After an extensive renovation, the ASI Craft Center will reopen to active students, faculty and staff on Monday, Jan. 22. Located in the UU, new additions to the facility include a multimedia craft room for team building and events, a dedicated stained-glass studio, an expanded ceramics program, updated class curriculums and more! Register for ASI classes or workshops today online at <https://www.asi.calpoly.edu/experience/craft-center/craft-center-courses>.

The Theatre and Dance Department will present “Retrograde,” the Orchesis Dance Company’s 54th annual concert, on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 19 and 20, and Thursday through Saturday, Jan. 25-27, in the Spanos Theatre. Performances will begin at 7:30 p.m. on all days, with a matinee scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 20. This year’s theme, “Retrograde,” is inspired by the name-sake dance compositional tool of manipulating movement phrases in their pure reverse. Reversing movement phrases creates new ways of looking at prior material, and all choreographers were tasked with incorporating a moment or more of retrograde within their dances. Tickets are $20 for the public and $12 for students, seniors and children. Purchase online at <https://www.pacslo.org>.
