Victor Glover Accepts Honorary Degree — and Celebrates Family Graduations

This year, Cal Poly Commencement was a joyful family affair for astronaut and Navy Capt. Victor Glover (General Engineering, '99). The alumnus, who accepted an honorary Doctor of Science degree at the College of Engineering ceremony on June 15, celebrated his wife Dionna, a child development major, and eldest daughter and biological sciences major Genesis as they walked across the stage at the Bailey College of Science and Mathematics ceremony the day before.

Reborn Corpse Flower Blooms on Campus

A few days after Commencement, Cal Poly Plant Conservatory Curator Gage Willey was watering plants in the lowland rainforest section when he noticed a two-foot-tall spadix shooting out of one of the pots: a telltale sign of an upcoming corpse flower bloom. "Usually, we get about three weeks of warning, but this one snuck up on me," Willey said. A little over a week later, Sneaky was in full bloom and receiving a steady stream of visitors. And even more special: Sneaky is the first of its kind to bloom in the Cal Poly Plant Conservatory.

New Password Requirements

Starting June 30, Cal Poly updated its password policy to better protect your personal information. Passwords must be at least 12 characters, and you'll only need to reset them every 400 days. We recommend switching to a passphrase—a string of three to five random, memorable words like "coffee rain triangle museum". Passphrases are easier to remember and much harder to crack than traditional complex passwords. You'll be prompted to update your password at your next scheduled reset.

Cal Poly Recognized at CSU Annual Procurement Awards

Cal Poly was recognized in both the individual and team awards program by the CSU during a meeting for all procurement and contracting staff. Cal Poly was named as the top performing team for a medium-sized campus, documenting $24 million in savings, the most in the system. Procurement Specialist Brian Gil was recognized with a Procurement Excellence Award. Gil led the RFP process for campuswide contract that established a campus standard for security and camera systems, put in place a contract for pest control services through an RFP process and has been instrumental in securing long-term vehicle leases for campus.

California Boulevard To Reopen in Early August

Work on the Water Reclamation Facility that has closed California Boulevard is expected to end early next month, and the road is expected to reopen Aug. 8. California Boulevard is closed between Highland Drive and Campus Way to allow for underground work. Detours have been put in place to lessen the impact of this closure. Part of the Cal Poly Master Plan, this on-campus Water Reclamation Facility will allow the campus to continue to grow sustainably by conserving potable water and diverting treated wastewater for agricultural irrigation. For ADA accommodations and all other questions, please email facilities@calpoly.edu.
