Gear Up for the Artemis II Launch

The Cal Poly community can cheer on one of our own during NASA's Artemis II mission around the moon, which plans to launch in April. Alumnus Victor Glover (General Engineering, '99) will piloting the mission, NASA's first lunar mission in more than 50 years. As he prepares for the journey, explore all the ways Glover is connected to Cal Poly, from athletics, to engineering, to becoming a Cal Poly parent to several Mustangs. Also, watch a special video with Glover as he answers a wide range of questions from students, faculty and leaders about living and working in space.

Retirement Announcement: Cindy Piper

After 21 years of service, Cindy Piper is retiring from Cal Poly. She began in Fiscal Services, spending 11.5 years in Student Accounts building strong expertise and campus relationships, then nearly 10 years with the Human Resources Information Systems team, where her contributions were highly valued. Cindy made a lasting impact through her professionalism, collaboration and support of colleagues and the campus community. In retirement, she looks forward to time with family and friends, enjoying the outdoors, learning golf, traveling and exploring new interests. Join us Thursday, April 2, 3–5 p.m. at Mustang Business Park's Emergency Operations Center to celebrate her retirement.

Resources for Tsunami Preparedness Week

California observes Tsunami Preparedness Week each March, an effort led by the National Weather Service and the California Governor's Office of Emergency Services to raise awareness about tsunami hazards and warning systems along the Pacific Coast. In 2025, an earthquake caused small tsunami waves across the coast, including at Cal Poly Pier. Tsunami warnings may be delivered through several systems, including wireless emergency alerts, emergency broadcast messages and PolyAlerts. Natural warning signs for a tsunami include a strong or long earthquake, the ocean suddenly pulling away from the shoreline or a loud roar coming from the ocean.

Pedestrian Traffic Changes are Happening Near the Student Success Center

Beginning this week, pedestrian traffic patterns near the Lynda and Stewart Resnick Student Success Center will change. Sidewalks along Village Drive between Truckee Road and North Perimeter and along North Perimeter between Village Drive and Building 15 will be closed for the duration of the project, expected through fall 2027. Temporary crosswalks will be installed to support safe access. Please follow all posted safety guidelines when traveling through the area.
